

This is a romance/adventure story that begins in Paris. Rick is touring Europe on a BSA motorcycle from the United States. He meets Murial, a young French lady hitchhiking back to her home in Dejon. They meet in a crowded youth hostel, where they develop an instant attraction. After many days of playing in Paris, they fall in love and begin a long motorcycle trip through the south of France. The book contains many adventures and detailed descriptions of many out-of-the-way local spots that only a French person would know about. The fun, romance, and humor make this a wonderful travel guide for anyone considering visiting this part of the world.
